

ITS America is seeking a mid-level Transportation Program Specialist to support work efforts related to the Society's technical contracts which focus on the research, development, and deployment of ITS technologies at a national, state, and local level. Specific tasks in support of contracts may include organizing and participating in stakeholder meetings/workshops, performing literature reviews and technology scans, conducting data analysis, and developing written proceedings and technical reports. Candidates with demonstrated experience in transit, transportation-related environmental and/or rural transportation issues, and particularly to the application of technology in these areas, will be given special consideration. This position will report to the Senior Program Manager.

The position will also provide staff support to one or more of the Society's Technical Forums, which cover a wide range of topics including personal mobility, safety, commercial vehicle and freight mobility, and sustainability. Tasks in support of the Forums may include organizing, facilitating, and documenting Forum teleconferences; engaging with Forum chairs and members; and developing written products that help advance the technology agenda.

Candidates shall possess a degree in civil/transportation engineering or related field, 3-6 years of relevant experience in the public or private sector, and a strong knowledge of ITS and the unique operational aspects of the various transportation modes. Candidates must be comfortable interacting with a diverse group of stakeholders, including officials at all levels of government and private industry. Candidates must also demonstrate strong interpersonal skills and a cooperative attitude, superior oral and written communication skills, a strong initiative and result-oriented problem solving ability, and the ability to perform as a pro-active team member.

ITS America is an equal opportunity employer. Salary is commensurate with education and experience.

To apply, please submit a resume, which details your education and relevant ITS / transportation knowledge and experience to: hrtransit@itsa.org
